SPORTS & EVENT

SCOPE

A sports event needs a concept that fits the people who will take part and a service scope that supports the intended experience. Our sports offering centers on cycling and running activities, with consultation and equipment-related support available according to the project brief.

Cycling and running events sit at the center of our sports offering. We discuss the activity format and event requirements with the client, then define the services and responsibilities needed for the project. The proposal should distinguish the role of One O'six from the role of the client and any specialist partners.

Consultancy gives clients a way to discuss the purpose of an event, its theme and its suitability for the intended participants. This can help align the proposed experience with the client's identity and objectives. Concept development should lead to a clear direction that can be assessed against the available budget and other project constraints.

Our equipment and gear services respond to the requirements of each event. The required items, quantities, specifications and arrangements should be determined from the brief. This avoids treating equipment as a standard list when the activity and scale may require a different setup.

VALUE

It creates a starting point for event owners and sports communities seeking an organized discussion of their sports activity. Technical delivery, route or venue responsibilities, specialist support and operating requirements remain project-specific commitments to confirm in the proposal.

DIGITAL SERVICES

SCOPE

Before participants arrive at an event, they need information and a way to complete the required administration. Our digital services cover several of those steps. Their purpose is to support a clearer connection between event information, registration, participant records and communication.

A website can present the event information and provide registration forms for participants. The content and registration requirements should reflect the activity and the organizer's needs. Required fields, categories and any limits should be confirmed as part of the website scope rather than assumed to exist as standard features.

Participant data management covers the collection, storage and analysis of event participant information. The project should define what information is needed, who can access it and what reports are expected. Any reuse for marketing or sponsor purposes needs an appropriate permission basis and a separately agreed scope.

Email and WhatsApp broadcast services can distribute relevant event information. An information center gives participants a point of reference for questions. Message content, timing, recipient permissions and support responsibilities should follow the agreed communication plan.

VALUE

Seamless payment system and information distribution is a backbone success of an event. The available channels, transaction arrangements and reporting responsibilities should be confirmed for the project. A confirmed payment scope helps organizers understand which functions and reports their event will use.

SPONSORSHIP ENGAGEMENT

SCOPE

Sponsorship works best when the relationship between the brand and the event is clear. Our sponsorship services cover prospecting, offers, negotiations and reporting. For 2027, bespoke activation concepts can be developed as proposed extensions when the client's objectives and delivery scope support them.

Prospecting identifies potential sponsors whose interests may fit the event. The discussion should consider the audience and event context before presenting a partnership opportunity. Outreach supports the search for a suitable relationship, while a sponsor commitment depends on the sponsor's own assessment and agreement.

An offer should explain the proposed rights, placements, deliverables and responsibilities. Negotiation turns those proposals into terms that both parties understand. The final scope may include agreed communication materials and event presence, with costs and delivery obligations defined clearly.

Sponsorship management follows the agreed partnership scope and reporting requirements. Reports should distinguish between delivered outputs and outcomes that require further measurement. Exposure, engagement or commercial indicators should only appear where the relevant data and method support the claim.

VALUE

We deliver measurable commercial value by prospecting and matching you with relevant brand partners, structuring customized partnership packages with clear counter benefits, managing full end-to-end fulfillment, and amplifying your brand through integrated social media campaigns backed by transparent, data-driven post-event reporting.

CREATIVE EVENT DOCUMENTATION

SCOPE

An event’s visual identity influences how people recognize it, while its documentation gives organizers and participants a record of the experience. Our creative offering brings design, social communication, photography and videography into the discussion around the event brief.

Our graphics design services respond to a brand’s identity and communication goals. The project can define the materials required for the event, their formats and how they will be used. Design scope should also specify review rounds and the final deliverables.

Content is used to introduce the event, explain relevant information and encourage prospective participants to consider joining. The communication plan should define the channels, content themes and publishing responsibilities. Any target for registrations or reach needs a separate measurement basis.

Event documentation captures agreed moments, activity and atmosphere through photos and video. Coverage should follow a defined brief, including important subjects and the expected outputs. Specific event attribution, delivery terms and usage rights should be clear before materials are used in a case study or campaign.

VALUE

We maximize your event's visibility and legacy through integrated creative execution — from high-impact graphic and 3D layout design and strategic social media content management to professional event photography and videography — enhanced by our Face Recognition & BIB Photo Finder technology that boosts participant engagement, drives social sharing, and provides instant, personalized photo access.

CORPORATE COMMUNITY AND EXPERIENCE

SCOPE

Outdoor activities offer a setting for people to spend time together outside their usual routines. One O'six Eduventure brings corporate gatherings and camping together with activities that emphasize teamwork and shared participation.

The format can combine an outdoor setting with a program suited to the group's purpose. The client may want a gathering, a camping experience or a combination of activities. Location, duration and accommodation-related requirements should be discussed within the project brief.

Team-building games provide opportunities for shared participation. Activity design should reflect the group's size, expectations and suitability for the setting. The intended purpose of the program helps guide the choice of activities and the way the experience is reviewed.

Entertainment can be selected to fit the event's objectives, budget and audience preferences. It can support the social side of a gathering without becoming disconnected from the program. The chosen format and delivery arrangements should form part of the agreed scope.

VALUE

We create meaningful shared experiences that strengthen team bonds and company culture through curated corporate gatherings and camping, purposeful team-building activities, immersive hiking and outdoor adventures, and engaging event entertainment — designed to boost morale, collaboration, and lasting connection beyond the workplace.
